

Selfish cell phone use is annoying in many locations but I cannot imagine any worse location than aboard a commercial aircraft. I feel that there are safety and security concerns as well. Cell phone use is available up to the closing of the aircraft door and is available upon landing. No one is that important that they need constant 24/7 access. I feel that cell phone use should continue to be limited as it is today.